Interpersonal relationships are important to humans, but there are also times when these relationships can be unhealthy. Hosted by Jennifer Harman, assistant professor of psychology at Colorado State University, in this Huberman Lab Essentials episode, I discuss the question: Do you decide how you feel AFTER looking and feeling about your partner in your life? Do you become enmeshed in another person's emotions? For centuries, we've been told a story about ourselves: that reason is noble and emotion is base. Do you know anyone who when you are in their presence, you automatically feel better? They seem to carry a level of calm, which is a sign of emotional regulation.
